SAVED FROM SEA.

Fugitives Were Escaping from Boston Prison.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8.—With a handkerchief fluttering as a signal of distress, Charles Jones, alias Pilger, and Herbert J. Hanson, were picked up yesterday in Boston harbor, off the Graves, where they were drifting out to sea on an old raft upon which they had made their escape from Deer Island. Their signal was seen by the captain of the pilot boat Louise, who took the men aboard and landed them at Boston Light, from which point they were returned to Deer Island by the police boat.

The two men, who were serving two and three years respectively for larceny, were engaged Saturday with other prisoners in working about the island and hid themselves in one of the outbuildings when the others returned to their cells. Early Sunday morning they loosened an old raft that had been hidden at an unfrequented part of the island and upon this they set out for liberty. They were unable to steer the raft and the high wind was rapidly taking them out into open water when they were discovered.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

Couple Caught in Southern Vermont Pleaded Not Guilty.

Bennington, Oct. 8.—After occupying most of the day, the hearing of the case of state vs. parties claiming to be Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith of Boston, who have been under arrest for a week, charged with forgery and passing of bogus checks, was adjourned for two weeks to give to E. M. and E. C. Smith of South Market street, Boston, a chance to get here to give testimony, and the prisoners were held in jail without bail after pleading not guilty to the charge. Both of them are young people and well dressed. The officials here believe that the young man's name is H. E. Saunders, and the name of the printer by which the two came here from Amherst, N. S., is Smith. The woman still persists that she is Mrs. E. C. Smith. Inquiries from Pinkerton men, also from officials in Winthrop, Me. inclose descriptions of the two parties who are wanted in Winthrop and other places for forgery. Word was received yesterday that E. C. Smith of South Market st., Boston that the check undertaken to be negotiated by them and signed by him is a forgery.

HUGHES AFTER HEARST.

How the Editor Hides Behind a "Corporation."

New York, Oct. 8.—Charles E. Hughes made his first Brooklyn appearance as the Republican gubernatorial candidate of New York Saturday night, addressing three meetings in that borough and later talking informally at a reception tendered him at the Union League club. At Prospect hall the candidate attacked the sincerity of William R. Hearst. He said that his hearers might not be able to silence the appeals to envy and hate sent out by Mr. Hearst, but that they could at least render them harmless. He said his opponent was trying to fool the people with the names "independence," "Americanism," and "corporations." Hughes declared that his opponent was not raising the cry against corporations because he was honest, but because he was seeking an office. Hughes read from the court proceedings of an action brought by a woman against Mr. Hearst to recover damages from injuries sustained by being run over by one of Mr. Hearst's newspapers. Mr. Hearst, the speaker declared, had denied the ownership of his paper, claiming it was owned by a corporation, which was shown to be an empty title used by Mr. Hearst to evade liability. The woman had, however, Mr. Hughes said, been given a verdict of $25,000, and the case had been fought all the way to the court of appeals. Mr. Hughes declared that Mr. Hearst was still hiding behind the "corporation" which he had so often and loudly denounced.

CROWD OF LYNCHERS STRING UP NEGROES

Outrage at Argenta, Ark., Last Night With Policemen Standing But a Few Blocks Away from the Scene.

Argenta, Ark., Oct. 8.—As a sequel to the killing of John Lindsay and the wounding of his son, Policeman Milton Lindsay, here Saturday night, presumably by Garrett Colum and Charles Colum, negroes, H. Blackburn, a negro, was lynched last night at ten o'clock at the corner of Sixth and Main streets. The trouble originated on September 12, when a white man named R. R. McDonald killed a negro missionary named Wiley Shelby.

At 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning, Will Harding, a painter, was halted on the street by unknown parties, whether black or white he could not tell, in the darkness. He was asked if he was black or white. On replying that he was white, he was told to go back and while leaving he was shot in the back. At two o'clock James Mahoney, a contractor, and Al Belding, a reporter on the Little Rock, Ark., Gazette, while going to see Harding, discovered a house on Third street where a pistol in the air fired. Mahoney fired his pistol in the air to give the alarm, and immediately the four men were fired upon from four different quarters with shot guns.

Mahoney was painfully shot in the hand, and Belding's clothes were peppered with bird shot. Yesterday H. Blackburn, 37 years old, a negro, who conducts a confectionery store in Argenta, was arrested on suspicion of being the man who shot on Monday morning. As a precaution Mayor Faubus sent several extra deputies to assist the police. Shortly before ten o'clock last night four masked men entered the police station from the rear and one covered the doorway with a pistol and the others got his keys and quickly unlocked Blackburn's cell and took him out the back way. Not a shot was fired and there was no disturbance, so that Policeman Pratt and two deputies who were standing on the street two blocks away did not hear anything of what was going on until they heard several shots fired at Main and Sixth streets. Going there they found Blackburn already dead, hanged to a telegraph pole, while the crowd was apparently composed of on-lookers.

JEALOUSY THE MOTIVE

Which Caused Harry J. Slocumb's Crime

HE SHOT HIS PARAMOUR

And Then Sent Bullet Into His Own Brain—Tragedy Was Enacted in a Boston Hotel Yesterday Afternoon.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8.—Muffled sounds from room 503 in the Castle square hotel attracted the attention of a chambermaid yesterday afternoon, and upon entering the room a woman, who proved to be Mrs. Deborah Hill, a widow, aged 40 years, residing in Malden, was found standing in the middle of the room with blood pouring from a bullet wound in her throat, while upon the floor a short distance away lay the body of Harry J. Slocumb of West Everett, with a bullet through his brain. The woman was taken to the city hospital, where she was reported last night as in a critical condition.

The couple came to the hotel Saturday night, where they were registered as Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Slocumb of Portland, Me., and nothing further was heard from them until yesterday afternoon.

To the police authorities Mrs. Hill said that the shooting was due to Slocumb's jealousy. He had been paying her attention for some time and yesterday he importuned her to marry him, saying that if she did not do so she would never marry anyone else. She refused and he drew a revolver and shot her in the throat. Then he turned the weapon upon himself and sent a bullet through his brain. Slocumb was 35 years of age and was well known in this city, where he was employed as a floor walker in one of the large department stores. He resided with his wife on Avon street, West Everett. His body was taken to the city hospital morgue, where it was claimed last night by his wife, but its removal was refused by the medical examiner until after an autopsy had been performed.

Woman Will Probably Recover.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Deborah Hill, who was shot yesterday by Harry J. Slocumb, will probably recover. Her physicians say that she rests comfortably today.

WAS AFRAID TO TELL OF FRIEND'S DEATH

Conway, Mass., Youth Shot and Killed Another and Didn't Tell of It Until He Was Forced to Do So.

Conway, Mass., Oct. 8.—Fearing to reveal the fact that he had shot and killed his hunting companion in the Conway woods Saturday, Charles Fair, 37 years old, kept for twelve hours the secret of the death of Augustus Fillee, aged 17, and only revealed it after close questioning.

Fair said the shooting was purely accidental, and that as he was leaving the woods with his gun on his shoulder, Fillee suddenly jumped behind him and the weapon was discharged. Fair said he ran home and told his mother and she advised him to "keep his mouth shut," which he said was the reason he did not let anyone else know of the accident. It was only after Fillee's father, alarmed by his prolonged absence, asked the help of the local authorities, that Fair was questioned. The boy at first said he did not know where Fillee was, but after telling some conflicting stories, he finally led the officers to the spot where the body lay. The medical examiner will report the opinion that the death was accidental. Young Fair will be given an examination in the Greenfield district court on a formal charge of murder.

GOT VERDICT BUT NO MONEY.

Max Swird of Plainfield Wanted His Earnings Back.

Burlington, Oct. 8.—The case of Max Swird vs. J. B. Felber, which has been hanging fire in city court for a period of nearly two years, came to an end Saturday, a judgment for $220 and costs of $23.69 being entered against the defendant, who was defaulted. The case was first entered January 13, 1905. Swird, the plaintiff, was a hard working Hebrew, who was living in Plainfield and saving his money by depositing it in the Burlington savings bank. He met Felber in Burlington and the latter represented to Swird that he was not getting enough interest at the Burlington savings bank, as the Howard national bank paid ten per cent. He said that he would take Swird's money and deposit it for him in the Howard national bank and give him a certificate whereby he could get his money out at any time. The transfer was then made, as Swird thought, and he received a certificate. He found, however, that when he went to get his money his "certificate" was no good. It was simply a certificate of shares in the Burlington mirror and plating company. He then consulted a lawyer and a writ was brought. Felber obtained bail and then disappeared. He was heard from once in Salt Lake City, where he deserted his wife. Later he hopped a train in San Francisco and then history lost track of him again.

SHOOTER GETS OFF WITH YEAR'S SENTENCE

Henry Ladue Sent to House of Correction for Hitting Joseph Manning on Sept. 18.

Burlington, Oct. 8.—Henry Ladue, the man who shot Joseph Manning a few weeks ago, was taken into city court Saturday where he pleaded guilty to charge of simple assault. He was sentenced to the House of Correction at Rutland for a period of not less than one year or more than one year and a half. Manning did not appear in court.

Ladue said he had no intention of shooting anybody and he fired the revolver just to scare Manning. The men were strangers to each other. Ladue admits addressing a remark to Mrs. Ida Givette, who was calling to Manning, "Come along Joe." He says he replied to her, "George has gone." Then Manning made a remark to him and came for him on the run. Ladue says he pulled the gun out of the pocket of his coat and fired, his only intention being to frighten the man who was coming for him. The revolver was a self-cocking one and he gripped it too hard discharging it at such an angle that the bullet hit the advancing man. Ladue says further that he was not in the habit of carrying a revolver. It had been in his possession for some time and he recently cleaned it and put it into the pocket of a raincoat. It rained the night of the shooting and he put on the coat without noticing the weapon.

The shooting occurred the night of September 18 at the corner of Main and South Champlain streets. The ball entered Manning's abdomen and was taken out at the back. The young man has recovered and is now out of the hospital.

MORON MAY QUIT FIGHT

Said to Have Gone to See Hearts

TO SOLICIT HIS AID

Ex-Mayor Feeney of Woburn Has Paid Most of the District Attorney's Campaign Expenses Thus Far.

Boston, Oct. 8.—The Herald this afternoon says that John B. Moran may quit the race for governor unless he can raise campaign funds, and that his present visit to New York is not so much for rest, as asserted, but to see William Randolph Hearst and get aid from him.

Some of Mr. Moran's close political friends said last night it would not surprise them if something dropped in the Moran camp any day. They complain of a lack of money for legitimate campaign expenses, and some of the more practical of the campaign managers are already asking where the funds are to come from to run the campaign.

It was said by prominent Moran men last night that so far most of the campaign expenses had come from ex-Mayor Feeney of Woburn, who has lately been registered in ward 10, Boston, and that Feeney had spent all that he thought he could afford to. These same Moran men say that the candidate himself has no income other than his salary as district attorney, and that it is impossible to run a campaign without money. Both Mr. Moran and his campaign manager realize that they start hampered by a lack of funds, and it is claimed that this, with other complications, has given the impression to some insiders that Mr. Moran is not as enthusiastic over the campaign outlook as he was some weeks ago.

It was pulled out and Mr. Putnam made haste to reach Dr. Colton to dress the wound, as it was feared that blood poisoning might set in. Today Mr. Putnam is unable to work in the National life insurance company's office, but is obliged to use crutches.

MAY GET NEW INDUSTRY.

Northfield Is After Stocking Mill and May Get It.

Northfield, Oct. 8.—That Northfield will soon have another industry that will employ from 100 to 150 hands is not at all improbable. Henry Field, president of the Northfield state company, Fred W. Dutton, together with Boston parties, have been during the past week in Bennington, and have secured a sixty days' option on the Scott stocking mills of that city. At a meeting held Friday night it was decided to buy the plant. The new company will build a duplicate plant in some other town, where they can secure encouragement.

Messrs. Field and Dutton are both anxious that the plant come to Northfield, and a meeting of the Northfield board of trade will be called some time during the week to consider the proposition. What they want is a suitable building 40 by 150 feet, two stories high, in a desirable location. Mr. Dutton met with much encouragement on Saturday from the business men of the village. Mr. Field, who has recently come to Northfield and become engaged in the state business, has been in the hosiery business a large part of his life and has met with success. He considers that the Bennington plant is one of the best in the country and can soon be put on a paying basis.

BOX 23 SUMMONED FIRE DEPARTMENT

But There is a Mystery as to Where and What the Fire Was—Chief Gladding Is Investigating.

There is no mystery about who rang the alarm, but rather where and what was the fire, for which the entire fire department was called out by box 23, the mysterious "skidoo" number, at 9:14 last evening. Some men, among them W. S. Page and H. A. Rugg, were sitting in the rage livery stable on Prospect street when they saw a bright light flame up back of the business blocks on the river side of Main street. They posted over to the police station and informed the police that there was a fire in one of the Main street buildings. The police turned out in fast time, for a fire in that vicinity means trouble. Going to the rear of the building they saw the reflection of a lamp rising and falling. Mr. Rugg hastened to the central station just a short distance away and Patrolman Hamel to box 23 at the City Hall corner. The latter calling in an alarm just as Mr. Rugg reached the fire station door.

The entire department turned out but failed to get track of any fire, so they returned to the station. This morning Chief Gladding continued the search, but was not able to find any trace of fire nor of anyone who had rung the alarm. He found one woman in the top of one of the buildings, who said she looked down and saw the same reflection that was seen by Messrs. Page and Rugg. On visiting the places along the stream Chief Gladding found no trace of fire. So the mystery remains unsolved.

DRANK DOSE OF POISON

A Brooklyn Street Woman Tried to Die

SAVED BY PROMPT WORK

Mrs. Petro Swallowed Over Half an Ounce of Potassium Permanganate—Is Now Declared Out of Danger.

A woman by the name of Mrs. Petro and residing on Brooklyn street swallowed a large quantity of potassium permanganate, probably with intent to make away with herself, yesterday afternoon. Her life was saved by the prompt response of Dr. Duffy who administered apomorphine hydrochlorate hypodermically as a rapid-acting emetic. Then he repeatedly washed out the stomach, so that the poison was eventually evacuated from the organ. Another emetic, egg albumen, was also given as a precautionary measure.

From the amount of substance thrown from the stomach the doctor thinks that the woman must have swallowed over half an ounce of the poison. In an hour's time after the administering of the remedies Mrs. Petro was resting comfortably and Dr. Duffy reports that she is probably out of danger. Little is known about the woman or as to the cause for taking the poison, but it is said there is little question that it was taken with suicidal intent. It is understood that Mrs. Petro came to Barre only recently from New York, and was acting as housekeeper for a Mr. Tupper at 35 Brooklyn street. She has a son nine years old.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Ida Batchelder, when the bridal party took their places before the officiating clergyman, the bride being attended by her sister, Miss Florence Dodge, and the groom by his groomsmen, James Mackay of Barre. On their return to Montpelier Mr. Forsell will resume his work with the Whittier orchestra and the Montpelier military band. Mr. Forsell has been a resident of Montpelier for five years, coming from Boston, where he stopped when reaching this country from his native land. The speakers felt that if they stood together the fusion organization might continue to be a strong factor in politics.
